SELLING A JUSTICE.

By Barnacle.

'O, that he were here to write me down—an ass! but remember masters. that I am an ass—though it may not be written down, yet forget not that I am an ass.'

Shumball Watson was a true specimen of a live Yankee pedlar, shrewd cautious and persevering. At bargaining he was a 'whole team.' as he expressed himself, could sell more tin ware in a day than any other man in the Bay State. He owned and occupied a small old fashioned, and crazy looking house, surrounded by an acre lot, the heir-loom of the family, and the birth place of a long line of Watsons, which fate fortune, and the flowing tide of population, willed should now be the very centre of the aristocratic village of C——. Several large and elegant modern mansions looked down with a true lordly air from what had been a few years since vacant lots, upon Shubes humble home and seemed to be thoroughly disgusted with the view and odor of his potatoe patch and barn yard. Squire Wigglesby, the Dogberry of C——, and fully worthy of the honors of his celebrated prototype, was Shube's nearest neighbor, and was particularly ashamed of his proximity to the moss covered and dirty red hovel. He together with his sympathizing neighbors heartily wished it at any place rather than where it was, and had made several Jew-like efforts to purchase from Shube that single acre, but he was in no disposition to sell, ever replying, 'Dod rot it. I don't zactly like to sell the humstead, I dont know what I might be tempted tu du for money, but dod rot it I don't zactly like ter sell.'

For this, and no other reason, they hated him, and felt a disposition to annoy him as much as possible—enough perhaps to force him to sell at their price. Numberless then, were the annoyances that Shube was forced to endure. If his hens flew over the fence they never returned alive, if his cow took a moments advantage of an open gate and wandered into the street she was in pound as if by magic, and poor Shube summoned before Squire Wigglesby and fined to the extent of the law. It was no use to remonstrate the Squire, with all the inflation of a little brief authority, only put it on harder, and Shube was soon as unhappy as a cat in a strange garret. One morning this winter he prepared for a professional tour among the neighboring towns. He first packed his wares in an old unpainted steep roof box, placed upon a sleigh bottom, and covered it with sundry specimens of his wares, such as tin lanterns, pans, pots, callenders, wooden ware, &c. and ornamented in the rear with a huge bag, to contain miscellaneous plunder, he then fastened between the thills old 'Barebones,' as he was generally known in the neighborhood, a sleepy looking skeleton of a horse, of a tarry white color whose head and tail felt the attraction of gravitation forcibly, and then finished off by buckling around old Barebones's neck a string of large old fashioned bells, many of which were so worn that the clappers had fallen out long since. Thus equipped Shube wrapped an old patched quilt around his feet, flourished his stick and proceeded down the street at an ambling pace, whilst the few frog croaking bells at old Barebones's neck like the castanets in the Cahucha, kept time to the motion of his feet. He had not proceeded far before he was suddenly astonished to see two myrmidons of the law in the shape of constables rush into the street and seize old Barebones by the bridle, who not being accustomed to such highwayman like proceedings raised his head for once in his life, and snorted.

'Hollo! yeou—I say—what are you about?' asked Shube, with astonishment.

'About! about to take you before the Squire.'

'What for? I shu'd like ter know.'

'Never mind you what for, come along and you'll find out fast enough.'

'Git eout now; yu don't fool me, I say let go yeou.'

'Make a fool of you? no, no somebody ahead of us there, but come none of this, come along quietly or we'll complain of you for resisting an officer, and then 'll be double fine.

'Fine? O snakes and beeswax? Now if this dont beat all. Waal now I shud jist like ter know what on arth Ive done, soliloquized the poor victim as he patiently followed like a sheep to the slaughter. In a few minutes the party were in the presence of the veritable Squire Wigglesby himself.

'Waal now Squire, isnt this I shud like ter know, commenced the wonderful Shuball

'Silence? thundered Dogberry, as clouds of frown gathered on his brow. Constable continued he, with a would be dignified air, bring in the bells.

Yes yer honor.

In a few moments the string of bells and bellfries from Barebones's neck were in the court.

Examine and report, said the sapient Justice.

Three yer honor three, only are bells.

There, very good. Shuball Watson said Wigglesby assuming a severe look and pompous tone as he turned to the amazed pedlar, how is it that you are daily before me? how is it that you are ever breaking the laws of our country? trespassing upon the rights of your neighbors! interfering with the regulations of the commonwealth! causing ——

Now Squire I swow as it is for that

Silence? not a word of contempt: Shuball Watson I fine you five dollars and costs for being upon the highway of the commonwealth, to the great danger of the life and limb of the commonwealth, but with three bells attached to your sleigh or vehicle, when the law clearly and expressly says that the number shall be five or more, and may this be a solemn warning to you in future, and sanctified to your good.'

Whew! Je hossi-phat! five dollars for the bells! now, Squire, an't you a leetle to hard on a feller when goodness knows, them are thee'l more noise than a hul bush el basket full of the little thimble jingling things that are on your sleigh—'

'Silence! a bell is a bell—the States know no distinction between bells.'

Sho'ow!—wa'al, now, but Squire, mine are as large as cow bells.

Cow bells or church bells, it matters not, a bell is a bell, cried the now furious Justice, pay your fine immediately and be off, or I'll fine you for contempt of court!'

'Ex—zact—ly so,' replied Shube, drawing his ell skin purse slowly, whilst his face brightened as if a new thought struck him. He soon paid the fine, and left the office in a brown study, shaking the dust from his shoes as he crossed the threshold Bells is bells—yes zactly so—bells is bells,' he muttered to himself.

The following night was bright and clear, and the stars twinkled out coldly from their coverts id the sky. The earth was clothed in its wintry mantel, and the ice covered trees glistened like diamonds. The air was still and biting, whilst the 'wee sma hous ayant the twal' where fast approaching. The merry sleight bells had ceased their music, and the inhabitants of C——had long since retired to their slumbers, when suddenly a trificer crash and ringing was heard in the streets that staried one from their beds. What could it be? was it fire? was the it the dreaded Peter Rugg? Windows flew up, and night caps protruded, despite the severity of the atmosphere. On it comes crash, bang, ding, dong—ratlety whan! and to the wonder of all old 'Barebones' ambles along, his head and tail droping as usual, Shube sitting bolt upright, and flurishing his scick, with five large cracked church bells attached to his cart in various places ringing out horrid discordant peals upon the night air. Some wondered, some laughed, some swore and closed their windows with an impatient slam.

Hallo! hallo! what is this? who are you that thus disturbs this neighborhood, making night hideous? cried the enraged dispenser of justice, Squire Wigglesby, as he leaned from his window, who are you? I'll have have you taken up!'

Bells is bells' shrieked Shube as he shot round the corner of the squire's house whilst Wigglesby drew in his head like a turtle. Down Chesnut, up grove through Walnut, and along Ceder streets hurried Shube, old Barebones seeming to gather life at every step, and evidently well pleased with his mission.

Oh heavens! has that fellow returned? cries one as the horrid din again assailed his ear.

Well if he ain't a rum 'un!' says another.

D—n that fellow' he ought to be shot! cries a third.

Go home you vagabond, go home and let us rest,' said Wigglesby, as Shube reappeared, 'go home or I'll have you endicted.'

Bells is Bells, and I am bound to make a noise in this world! shouted Shube as he plied the birch, and again disappeared round the corner. Again and again Shube went the rounds, and sleep was a stranger in C—— until light began to dawn in the East, and then strange visions haunted every couch, hobgoblins, devils, Peter Rugg Dr Faustus, and Death on the pale horse, were busy in imaginations of the sleepy citizens. But none felt half so bad as Wigglesby for he felt that he had been 'taken in and done for,' regularly 'sold' and he feared the joke would get out. He ventured not out during that day, but the story of Shube fine got round town, and despite the closed shutters at Wigglesby's house, he frequently heard the little urchins with squeaking voices, in the street crying Bells is bells, Squire Wigglesby!' The milkman ashman and baker, Looked round with a know leer as they made their daily call, and talked queerly about bells There was no peace in Wigglesby's mind that day, and he heartily wished that he had not meddled with the cursed pedlar.

Evening came, and with it the busy jingling of the merry sleigh bells and all was life in the village of C——but that passed away and the still hours of night followed, and early the sleepy citizens were were wrapped in the arms of Morpheus. When suddenly that dreadful crash ring and bang, broke in upon their sleep like the smash of a connon-ball among their dwellings.

Good heavens! has the demon come again?' cried many in dismay, shall we never get asleep.

Old Barebones was abroad again, and Shube flourished his stick and handled his ribbons as gracefully as if making time inside of 2,40.'

Mr. Watson! Mr. Watson!' cried Wiggleby from his his window, do go home Mr. Watson and let us sleep come thats a good man do, a joke, but this is carrying it a little too far.

Bells is bells Squire ye know, and Bones and me is taken a sleighride, cried shube as he flew past.

A party of the b'hoys, who had heard of the joke, were at the next corner, and cheered shube as he rattled past, and soon joined in chase with every sort vehicle to be mustered, and the noise of shubie's bells and the shouts of the boys managed to drive sleep from the lids of the victims that night. Day had hardly dawned when the heads of several of the first families were seen picking their way slowly towards Wigglesby's house, as if by common consent. They found that gentleman in a high state of nervous excitement pale and haggard from his watchings irtiated feelings.

'What the devil is the meaning of all this Wigglesby,' asked one—this is scandalous.'

Oh I've been taken in, sold humbugged completely, made an ass of myself, returned the Squire in angry tones as he threw his cap in the corner.

True true,' said Mr Pertly absently.

Humph,' grunts another.

Ayeio u, yawned a third.

But whats to be done, asked No. 1. we must do something to stop this, we shall all be sick, my family are sick, this fellow will haunt us to our graves.

True true ejaculated Pertly.

Buy him off, says Grumble I'll give a 5 s ot.

Aye aye, buy him off, yi-yi'll give a 5 spot, says Yawner.

Agreed thats it—make up a purse and buy him off: he will have all the rowdies in Christendom with him another night. But who shall be the agent, and do the business.

Wigglesby,' cried several. It was no avail for him to attempt retreating, he was forced to submit, the call was unanimous. He submitted with as good a grace as possible, and buttoning up his coat he left the house, looking as disconsolate and woe-be-gone as if attending his own funeral, Wigglesby soon arrived at Shube's house, and found him busy in the yard, merry as a grig, alternately singing and whistling.

'Mornin.' Squire—how do du?' said Shube.

Good morning, Mr. Watson. I've called to hear from you the lowest price for which you will sell this house and lot.'

Now du you want to buy?' asked Shube scrutinizing the Squire closely as he spoke.

'Yes.'

Warl, let me see—what was it that you and Jones offered me last summer!'

Eleven hundred.'

'And I ask'd!'

Two thousand.'

'Wa-al, Squire, I've concluded that land is risin', and as I've gone inter the bellmetal speckilation, and the feller sez in the play, 'knows the valley of peece and qvietness,' and seein its you, I'll sell for Four thousand! and——'

Four Thousand? you shall have it, come down to my office——

Stop. Squire—stop a minit, you'r in such a pesky hurry you didn't wait ter 'hear me out. If I sell the land I must sell my interest in the bell-metal speckilation with it,' said Shube winking mischievously.

Interest in the bell-metal! how much is that pray!

Four hundred! to be sure it didn't cost me but two, but I've cracked the stock on hand 50 per cent, and consequently so much easeir convarted inter ra-al ginwine bell-metal.'

Forty-four hundred is your price, then? said the Squire, savagely.

Wa-al, yis 'tis mornin', to-morrow mornin' it will be Five Thousand, but I scorn to take advantage of the markit.

Well, I suppose it must be so—sleep & quiet must be purchased at any price,—but hang me if I ever fine a pedlar again.'

WASHINGTON CITY D. C,

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1849:

THE PRESIDENT ELECT.

We are sorry to hear of his injury however slight, but are happy to learn he has recovered so far as to be able to leave his room.

We would caution him however against this severe climate under which hundreds are now suffering.

From the Nat. Whig.

MOVEMENTS OF THE PRESIDENT ELECT.

We are glad to be able to announce, that the President elect is recovering from the fatigues of his journey.

He paid his respects yesterday to the President and his lady at the Executive Mansion. The members of the existing cabinet called upon him in the course of the day and were cordially received. Mr, Buchanan was introduced by Mr. Clayton.

He recieved the salutations of his fellow citizens in the course of the day, and we were pleased to see, the that there was no crowd during the whole time of reception. This considerate regard, paid by the people to his comfort and convenience is the highest mark of respect that could be extended towards him.

He will receive company to day, again between the hours of twelve and two o'clock.

The joint committee of Congress, appointed to wait on Zachary Taylor, to notify him officially of his election to the Presidency, performed that agreable duty yesterday, through their distinguished chairman, the Hon Jefferson Davis, the Senator from Mississippi. The President elect replied to Mr Davis' speech in his usual felicitous style. The committee will probably wait on Millard Fillmore to day and officially notify him of his election to the Vice Presidency when they will report to their respective Houses the result.

CONGRESS,

We do not agree with some of the editors in their charges against Congress, for idleness, waste of time &c. It is strange that those who are prone to fault-finding can never see but one side of the question.

In justice to the Thirtieth Congress, they have done more business—passed more private bills, and relieved more distress (so far,) than has been done by many Congress's, which have preceded them.

Many a poor widow and orphan have cause to bless the Thirtieth Congress. Hon Senator Johnston of La. and Hon Wm, Kennon of Ohio, of the House—have earned a Heaven of happiness for themselves, and the lasting praises and prayers of the poor.

THE BELLOWS FALLS (Vt.) GAZETTE,

'Conducted by John W. Moore,' has the following in his last paper—February 15th—

"Mrs. Anne Royall, the editor and publisher of the Huntress, Washington D. C. makes the following comment upon an article which appeared in this paper in December last, relative to the Landing of the Pilgrims. After quoting Mrs. Royall says—

'An eloquent' & 'historical discourse' &c wonder if the gentleman—Rev. Dr. Worcester, touched upon that part of their history where they murdered the Indians, the Friends, and other innocent men, women and children in cool blood. We see nothing of it in the Gazette. He quotes liberally from the Bible. Comments in our next.'

'We have been anxiously waiting for those comments, but since Jan. 26th have not seen a number of the Huntress. We should like to know what the Huntress says further upon the interesting subject and whether the Pilgrim Fathers were such a band of desperadoes as Mrs. Royall hints they were.'

The gentleman pretends to be ignorant of the history of his country, and wishes to know what we say further upon the interesting subject, and adds (sneeringly) "whether the Pilgrim Fathers were such a band of desperadoes as Mrs. Royall hints they were." We recommend to Mr Moore to look in Belknap and Mr. Bancrofts history's of New England, Dr Morses American Geography, and Grinshow's History of the United States—perhaps if the gentleman looks sharp he may find facts instead of 'hints.' "Mrs. R." never hints, we are not afraid to speak out boldly against lawless tyrants, who have, and still would spill human blood for no other crime than difference of opinion.*

Ever since our constitution secured toleration to every denomination of christians these same descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers have been burning for revenge. For this purpose they have encompassed land and sea to collect money to enable them to wreake their unqualified hatred on the friends of toleration;

They now think they can accomplish it, through their army of fanatics, which they have been drilling for years under the name of "spreading the gospel." Of course no man in his proper senses would cherish conspiracy against his country—the happiest country under the Sun.

We by no means would have Mr. Moore imagine that we intended the remotest censure against him, for publishing celebrations of the 'Landing of the Pilgrims,' we were glad to find one to aid our argument, for since we handled them with gloves off, they have been cautious of publishing.

The year before last the descendants carried these celebrations to an unprecedented extent over the whole country, but particularly in New Orleans. They have no doubt a peculiar longing to be masters of that fine rich country. Should such a calamity ever befal it, the Catholics may prepare for the rope, and to have their tongues cut out, and bored into holes with red hot irons.

It is to keep alive this fiendish spirit that the celebration is kept up. If it be not, then what is the object? They dare not say it was for their goodness.*

* Mr Dudley died with a copy of verses in his pocket. of which the two following lines make a part,

"Let men of God in court and churches watch,
O'er such as do a toleration hatch!"

* We are sorry there is no room for the St. Charles, New Orleans, last celebration: 'It was a real farce to hear them, there is but three that can speak, Hon, —— bullit, Col; Brooks, now a General, who gathered 10 pious "descendents;" took 'em to New York and appointed an adjourned meeting to convert the Navy. We forget the name of of the 3rd: but we will have it all on paper some time "afore" long.

☞ Intending to take a holiday ourself next week, and our boys and girls, to see Gen Taylor, the Inauguration and all the gay people, no Huntress will issue from this office next week.

THE TRIBUNE.

We have a word to add upon the Mercer [Pa,] county meeting, copied from the Tribune into our last paper. Had the gentlemanly Editor of the Tribune known the sort of people composing the meeting he quoted from, he would have sought a more respectable source. But we know those people.

While on our travels through the United States, we left Pittsburg in the stage for Erie Pa. Mrs Judge Baldwin, (of the S. C. U. S.) and ourself being the only passengers.

This was about the time Anti Masonry was at its height, and election time too, and the stage had to pass through Mercer county,

It was a fine day, and the time went off pleasantly till about one or two o'clock, when we were startled by a sudden shouting and the rushing of a party of men from the woods advancing up toward us. They were without hats, their hair an end, and the anxiety visible in their looks and actions, gave them the appearance of madmen. The driver had stopped in the road, and began to pull bits of paper out of his pocket and handed them severally to the men as they approached. These were the returns of the elections which had gone against their anti Mason candidate, and accounts for the incident. They hung their heads and the stage moved forward, Addressing a few words to Mrs, Baldwin, who being in very delicate health became quite nervous, But as she attempted to reply, the ruffian driver jerked up the old curtain at his back, and stooping his face to take a view of our lady-ships, enquired, "who was it that said that?" "said what," said we, taking up the qdestion, "You had better knock our brains out," "D—d if it would take much to make me do it," and swore hard against the Masons, and all that took their part. "Every one ought to be hung." We repremanded him sharply—told him we would have him taken up the first magistrate we came to, "that Judge Baldwin's lady was in the stage and was quite ill." He whipped up his horses and soon came to his stand, and while we were relating the facts to the Landlord (a very clever man—he cleared out.

We spent the night at Meadville. Mrs Baldwin being so ill she just drank a cup of tea and retired, and before we were done supper the parlor was nearly filled with rough looking men. Rough looking men we have seen—been used to them all our life, but a more illiterate set of men than these perhaps, does not exist in any civilized country, they seemed to have parted with human nature. But were not peculiarly vicious—nor ill natured like the ruffian driver, but so ignorant that though they were on thorns to hear what we had to say upon anything at all, but chiefly Masonry, the poor creatures did not know how to put the question. 'Well, tell us how it was?' and 'we want to know what you have to say about it.' "If you mean Free Masonry, gentlemen, all we know about it is, that our husband a respectable officer of the Revolutionary Army, was a Mason, and used to set in the Lodge with Gen: Washington and Lafayette, and was one of the best men in the world." Nothing however could reach their intellect.

Western Pa, is under the complete control of the Church and State party, and Western New York, nearly the same where they have put down education—as we shall show—ignorance suits their purpose. From these ignorant masses they organize their gospel armies, hence the free soil party abounds in the parts above mentioned, and we have not a doubt but some of those men who waited upon us at Meadville composed the meeting of the 'three strong resolutions' mentioned in the New York Tribune!

But we wish to point out to the people how quick the Church and State party can model their men, Take the anti Mason Driver for instance see how perfectly, and must have been suddenly too, he was drilled compared to the mass at Meadville from which he was taken.

☞ Can this be true? there was a report at the Post Office on thursday, that Mr Ewing of Ohio is to be the new POST MASTER GENERAL. We do not believe it. If it be true then there are traitors in the camp already, no friend to his country would propose such a measure. If such a man exists—we pronounce him a traitor to his country and an enemy to Gen Taylor, while there are hundreds of good men in the country, many of them known to Gen Taylor. This man, E, is the Chief in command of the Abolition and Church and State party and of course Free Soil and will be the Robespierre of the party. Where Mr Granger cut off ten heads —as it was called*—Mr E, would cut off ten times ten.

* It was chiefly Granger's doing's who destroyed the Whig power.

THE WEEKLY COMMERCIAL.

This beautiful paper has been coming to us some time. It is published in Evansville Indiana. by Messrs YOUNGLOVE & SULLIVAN, Publishers and Proprietors.

"TERMS,—One dollar and twenty five cents in advance for a single copy, or five copies for five dollars.'

It is one of the most intelligent papers that reaches us,

Poor Fellow! A Southern poet, who cannot raise funds enough to get tha 'gold digging,' thus pours out his full soul in glowing strains:

If I only was an elephant,
I'd pack my trunk and travel:
And away in California
I'd soon be scratching gravel!

THE DYING.

Oh, mother, make my bed for me,
I'll ask it not again,
Why are thy eyes so dim with tears?
I would not give thee pain.

Father, dear father, ere I die,
Draw near my couch of death,
And seal thy blessing, ere I yield
My last expiring breath.

Sister stretch out thy trembling hand
I feel I'm dying now,
Wipe off those tear-drops from thy eyes,
And smooth my burning brow.

Brother breath out thy last farwell,
And give thy parting kiss,
Ere my freed spirit takes its flight
To yon bright world of bliss.

Friends of my gay and joyous hours,
I've loved you deep and long,
Breathe out for me one parting prayer
And sing one parting song.

Farewell! but when I'm laid to rest,
Breathe not for me a sigh,
Death comes! it was a grief to live,
An endless bliss to die

Corns may be removed by simply walking away with them. To make the cure permanent, don't come back yourself.

Be energetic if you wish to prosperous.

DR. TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA

Most extraordinary Medicine in the world

This Extract is put in quart bottles. It is six times cheaper, pleasanter, and warranted superior to any sold. It cures diseases, without vomiting, purging, sickning, or debilitating the patient.

The great beauty and superiority of this Sarsaparilla over all other remedies is, while it eradicates disease, it invigorates the body.

IT HAS PERFORMED MORE THAN 15 000 CURES THIS YEAR.

1,000 cures of Rheumatism.

1,000 cures of Dyspepsia.

2,500 cures of General Debility and Want of Nervous Energy.

30,000 Female Complaints, and over 7,000 cures of Diseases of the Blood viz:

Ulcers, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, pimples on the face, &c., together with numerous cases of consumtion, liver complainst, spine affections, &c This, we are aware, must appear incredible, but we have letters from physicians and our agents from all parts of the United States informing us of extraordinary cures. R Van Buskirk, Esq, one of the most respectable druggists in Newark, New Jersey, informs us that he can refer to more than one hundred and fifty cases in that place alone. There are thousands of cases in the city of N. York which we will refer to with pleasure, and to men of character well known.

OPINIONS OF PHYSICIANS.

Dr. Townsend is almost daily receiving orders from physicians in different parts of the Union.

This is to certify that we, the undersigned physicians of the city of Albany, have in numerous cases prescribed Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla and believe to be one of the most valuble preparations of Sarparilla in the near ket.

P H. Puling, M. D. R. B. Briggs, M. D. P E. Elmendorf, M. D.

Albany, April 1, 1845

The following is from one of the most respectable physicians on Long Island:

GREENPORT July 19, 1847.

DR. TOWNSENDS—Dear Sir—it is with satisfaction that I have recently witnessed, in several cases the most beneficial results from your extract of Sarsaparilla. Be engaged in the practice of medicine, I have prescribed it in several cases, and never without benefit. In the removal of diseases arising from a deranged state of the digestive orvans, jaundice, &c. if far exceeds any thing of the kind ever offered to the public. You will please send me two dozen, &c.

Respectfully yours,
C, S, PRESTON, M D.

UNITED STATES OFFICER.

Capt G W Mclean, Member of the Legislature, and late of the U. S. Navy; has kindly sent us the following certificate. It tells its own story

RAHWAY Jan. 25. 1847.

A year since I was taken with the influenza and my whole system left in a debilitated state. I was induced to try Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, and after taking two or three bottles, I was very much relieved, and attribu ed it entirely to the said Sarsaparilla. I have continued taking it. and that I improve every day. I believe it saved my life, and would not be without it under any consideration.

G W. McLEAN.

SCROFULA CURED.

This certificate conclusively proves that this Sarsaparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the blood. Three persons cured in one house is unprecedented,

THREE CHILDREN.

DR. TOWNSEND—Dear Sir, I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been cured of the scrofula by the use of your excellent medecine. They were afflicted very severely with bad sores; having taken only four bottles; it took them away, for which I feel myself under deep obligation.

yours respectfully,

ISAAC W. CRAIN, 108 Wooster street.

G. BROOKE & CO

Would respectfully inform the citizens of Washington, Georgetown and Alexandria, and the public generally that they have made such arrangements with the publishers and others as to enable them to offer inducements to subscribers and others, that are not to be met with at any other establishment in the District:

from their long and familiar acquaintance with the business in this city, they feel confident that they can give satisfaction to all customers who may be pleased to favor them with a call, and they assure subscribers and public that no pains will be spared to make the Literary depot corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Fifteenth street, equal to any establishment of the kind south of New York

THE GLOBE,

A Congressional, Agricultural, and Literary Newspaper.

The Editors of the Congressional Globe propose a new publication. To deserve the patronage which Congress has accorded to their reports of its debates, in receiving and making the Globe the official register, they intend to add promptitude to whatever merit has hitherto recommended the work. They will publish a Daily Globe, to record the proceedings and debates as they occur, and a Congressional Globe periodically as heretofore embodying the reports of Congress separate from the miscellaneous matter which will accompany them in the daily print. To fill the sheet of the daily newspaper, it is designed to gather the news from all quarters, and complete the contents by drawing from every source what ever may be of most interest among literary novelties, and of greatest utility in science, art, or agriculture. For material the leading journals and periodicals of France and Great Britain, treating of such subjects will be consulted and it is hoped, advantageously used. Original essays, especially on topics connected with agriculture, will be obtained from the most enlightened and practical men of our country.

The Globe as a newspaper, and as a vehicle of information and amusement in other respects will be under the charge of Francis P. Blair and James C. Pickett. The Congressional department and business concerns of the paper will be under the management of John C. Rives. The public are familiar with Blair and Rives as connected with the press. In introducing Mr Pickett as one of the concern they will be allowed to say a few words of him. He is a gentleman favorably known to the Government, for the talent and judgment which distinguished his diplomatic service while connected with the mission to Quito, and more recently when Charge d'Affaires to Peru. From him mainly the Globe will derive the selections and translations from the foreign continental journals and periodicals, the comments on them and the other literary articles which will be found among its chief attractions. F. P. Blair will give his attention principally to the English periodicals.

The Globe will be published daily during the session of Congress and weekly the balance of the year and will undergo distribution in the form of a Weekly Globe, a Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Weekly Globe will contain agricultural and miscellaneous articles.

The Congressional Globe will embody as it has done for the last sixteen years, Congressional proceedings and debates exclusively.

The Appendix will embrace the revised speeches separately and the messages of the President of the United States and the reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments.

The Congressional Globe and appendix will be published as fast as the proceedings of Congress will make a number. Subscribers may expect one number of each week during the first four weeks of a session and two or three numbers of each week afterwards, until the end of the session.

Complete indexes to the Congressional Globe and appendix, will be sent to subscribers soon after Congress adjourns.

TERMS.

For one copy of the Daily Globe daily during the session of Congress, and weekly during the recess, a year, $5 00

For one copy of the Weekly Globe one year, 2 00

For one copy of the Congressional Globe during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00

For one copy of the Appendix during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00

For six copies of either the Congressional Globe or the appendix, or part of both, 5 00

The subscription for the Congressional Globe or the Appendix after the 10th of January will be $1 50. The original price of one dollar does not pay the expense of the publications in consequence of the great increase of matter published.

NEALS SATURDAY GAZETTE

Reduced prices to Clubs. Counted to be the "Best of the Weeklies."

This popular newspaper having just entered its sixth volume, the proprietors have determined to give it new attractions for the public. Accordingly the will present a series of

ILLUSTRATED SKETCHES BY JACOB JONES.

Jacob Jones is, perhaps, unsurpassed as a comic writer. His sketches of "Going to Housekeeping," 'The Boarding House,' &c. be unrivlled for humor and wit. Each sketch will be illustrated by an engraving, designed and engraved expressly for "Neal."

ORIGINAL PRIZE TALES.

The publication of the original prize tales will be continued, as well as of other interesting original matter, It is the boast of "Neal" that its contents are more varied and better than its contemporaries, besides being original There is more original thought in Neal's gazette, says a competent critic, "than in all the other weeklies."

A FAMILY JOURNAL.

It is the first wish of the editers to make their paper a perfect family newspaper family journal, which old and young may read with profit and pleasure alike. For this purpose the news of the week is collected with the greatest care Everything transacting in the world of news is weekly presented to our readers accompanied with appropriate editorial article

A LADIES PARLOR COMPANION.

This a department of the Gazette which must have struck its readers with being widely different from other weekly journals, Our effort has been to combine with a high-toned and sprightly family paper articles of a more serious and useful kind, especially interesting and important to ladies, Mrs Neal has the entire control of this Department, and when we add that the following Ladies of rank in the literary world are constant contributors to Neals gazette, we show that the paper is conducted with a marked reference to the interests of the sex;— Miss Leslie, Fanny Forester, Mrs Osgood, Mrs C, H, Butler Mrs Swift, Mrs. Hale, Mrs Caroline Orne. Mrs Hall, Mrs E, F, Ellet, Anna Duval, Alice G, Lee. Lydia Jane Pierson, Meera M, Duncan, with many others of note and position among the writers of our country.

COMMERCIAL AND AGRICULTURAL

Especial pains are taken to render the 'Commercial and Agricultural Department" of the Gazette of peculiar interest to all men of business, and it will be found that our REPORTS OF THE MARKETS, prepared with especial reference to the objects of the mercantile community, are far more correct, more comprehensive, and earlier in their intelligence than those of any of our contemporaries.

JUVENILE DEPARTMENT.

A comparison of our Juvenile Department with that of any cotemporary will show superiority. We invite this comparison.

REDUCTION TO CLUBS.

The publishers, determined not to be out-done in enterprise, have resolved to clubs "Neal" as low as any two dollar cotemporary, and this notwithsding it is the only original and American weekly, and contains as much matter, by printer's measurement, as any other

AND AUGMENTED INTEREST!!

The undersigned having purchased the disputed claim on the old Saturday Courier, and being determined not to be surpassed in the competition among the press For popularity beauty and excellence, will now combine the unrivaled and unapproachable materia' of the old paper, with the renewed energy enterprise novelty and spirit of a new one and will issue, on the 11th day of March, 1848 in the city of Philadelphia the first number of a new weekly Newspaper, of the very first and largest class, entitled

M'MAKIN'S MODEL,
AMERICAN COURIER

Published and edited by ANDREW M'MAKIN now editor of the Saturday Courier,

Assisted by a gentleman, universally acknowledged as one of the most talented and popular writers of the age,

The farmers Department, of the Courier will be edited, It is expected, by the most distinguished Agriculturist in the united States whose name will be announced as soon as the pending negotiations are contempleted.

THE AMERICAN COURIER

Will contain the amount of eight more columns of matter than does the "Saturday Courier," and it will be conducted strictly on the CASH PRINCIPEL, will, with all its Artistic and literary improvements, be offered at a much reduced price to "Clubs,"

The editor of the American courier feels confident that not a pledge will be required of time to the character of the new paper, other than that it will be a family newspaper, neural in politics and religion; chaste in morality and moderate but elevated in tone and sentiment. His long connection with the "Saturday courier,"—which, under at least his co editorship, reached the largest similar circulation in the world,—will be ample pledge that every intelligent and respectable family in the land, may safely confide in his taste, judgment and energy, with the aid of comparatively unlimited capital, to cater for their mental appetite

The contents of the American Courier.

Among the standard features of the american courier, will be—a new series of 'Washington Legends,' by George Lippard, ESQ. The 'portrait Gallery' of poets and their poetry—each Biography Illustrated, Original domestic tales, by the most distinguished writers of the day. Original essays, sketches, poems, and letters on useful and important subjects. Engraved views of persons, scenes and things of interest Select tales from the best english and american authors. The 'Modern Spectator, in wich it will be designed to

"Eye nature's walk, shoot Folly as it flies
And catch the manners living as they rise

Together with every useful novelty that ingenuity, skill and talent can advise.

THE FARMERS DEPARTMENT will immediately take and maintain an originality and value not approachable by any family journal in the land the editor having engaged several writers, of known and acknowledged ability to furnish practical articles on model farming,

The markets, news and gossip of the day will be objects of special care in detail, and nothing will be left undone by mind or money.
